The German with a Focus on the Job Market Intensive Course is intended for adolescents, young adults (16–25), and adults, including those not accustomed to school. This course equips participants with language skills from A1 to B2, practical application and job-relevant skills (such as everyday mathematics, ICT, and application training), and uses fide's scenario-based approach to make learning relevant to daily life and employment. The program runs mornings or afternoons at an intensity of 15 lessons per week, with each GER sublevel (e.g., A1.1, A1.2, A1.3) lasting 8 weeks (total 120 lessons), and an entire GER level taking about 9 months. Entry is flexible, with placement based on a test and courses starting four times a year or upon joining an ongoing course. The fee for each 8-week course is CHF 2,490, including teaching materials, and participants can earn a fide (in-house) language certificate at the end. Childcare is not provided. The offer is IAZH-accredited.

The Intensive Literacy Courses are also delivered at the same locations, targeting adolescents, young adults, adults, and those not used to school. These courses teach or improve reading and writing in German, as well as everyday mathematics, ICT skills, and learning strategies. Literacy modules (Alpha 1, Alpha 2, Alpha 3, and post-literacy training) each run for 8 weeks, with 15 lessons per week (120 x 45 minutes per module), and are available mornings, afternoons, or evenings. Childcare is available during attendance. The cost for each module or post-literacy course is CHF 2,880, plus CHF 60 for course materials. Entry is ongoing, making the program highly accessible. The literacy offer is also IAZH-accredited.
