Förderverein cocomo – Practical Year

At Badenerstrasse 812, 8048 Zurich, Förderverein cocomo offers the “Practical Year” for adults, including those with psychological stress, without a specific target group focus. The program prepares participants for vocational school by teaching technical, linguistic, and interdisciplinary skills relevant to Swiss vocational education. Subjects include German, mathematics, ICT, and specialized communication, with a strong focus on closing academic gaps and project work. Participants typically complete an internship four days a week alongside the course. The intensity is 9 lessons per week (one day), with an optional additional day of 8 lessons per week. Duration varies: regular (10.5 months, August to June), shortened (8 months, November to June or 5 months, February to June), with up to 44 course weeks per year and repeat options. There are three annual start dates following an entrance test, and a more intensive option can start anytime. The monthly cost for the regular program, including teaching materials, is CHF 750. This offer is IAZH-accredited.

Förderverein cocomo – SPRINTPlus (A1-B1, for People Used to the Educational System)

SPRINTPlus is designed for adults—particularly school-acquainted participants and those with psychological stress—who wish to improve their German from GER A1 or A2 toward B1, and develop action skills needed for the labor market and integration into everyday professional and social life. The course, located at Badenerstrasse 812, 8048 Zurich, runs 12 lessons per week over four half-days, available mornings and afternoons. SPRINTPlus covers German, general education, mathematics, ICT, and job market skills, including preparing a strong application dossier. The program introduces participants to vocational training, internships, or jobs. Entry is possible twice monthly, with a fee of CHF 880 per month including teaching materials. Childcare is not provided, and the offer is IAZH-accredited.
