Marktlücke GmbH offers “Marktlücke – the support programme for women,” a specialized integration program at Hermetschloostr. 70, 8048 Zurich (which includes the office, workshop, and restaurant “Kantine Hermetschloo”) and Schipfe 24, 8001 Zürich (Laden). The program is designed for adult women, including those with care responsibilities and people experiencing mental stress, to support both social and professional integration. The basic offer consists of internal work assignments tailored to individual suitability, available in sales/take-away, gastronomy (kitchen or service), workshop, or administration. Participants benefit from subject-specific training (with certification), regular internal German language support, health promotion activities, and on-site social counselling with personalized psychosocial assistance. The program accommodates flexible workloads from as low as 20% up to 80% per week, with German language entry at A1 level required. Duration is individualized according to the participant’s needs, with the four program phases typically lasting six months for phases 1–3 and three months for phase 4, but adaptable as needed. Entry is possible at varying task loads, and the monthly costs are CHF 2,250 for the initial work assignment (phase 1, one month, no extensions), or CHF 1,950 per month for subsequent phases including language support and training modules. Optional application coaching is available for CHF 800 per month (five hours). The Marktlücke support program is IAZH-accredited.
